

i support any effort to standardize the wisconsin no-call list rules with the federal no-call list rules. it disappoints me when there are more stringent rules in certain states, and it makes it increasingly difficult for our state to recruit and retain large employers with business practices that rely upon a telemarketing effort. the last thing we need is to lose a large employer to a neighboring state because of our regulatory practices.